

Nanodiamonds for cancer treatment

The use of nanodiamonds for delivering of chemotherapy drugs has been reported in the journal Nano Letters. Researchers from the Northwestern University demonstrate that such approach has the benefit of avoiding the negative effects associated with current drug delivery agents (e.g. cell inflammation). This study has the potential to impact several areas of Biomedicine. Learn more about it here. T. S. Mayor