

BMW Builds a Shape-Shifting Car Out of Cloth

Instead of steel, aluminum or carbon fiber, the GINA Light Visionary Model has a body of seamless fabric stretched over a movable metal frame that allows the driver to change its shape at will.

For more information: blog.wired.com

José Santos